White House Billiard Hall.

The establishment has passed through the hands of the decorators and painters, and presents a beautiful appearance. The bar is supplied with choice imported and domestic wines, liquors and cigars, and everything needed in arranged in first-class order, and Montalvo proposes to keep nothing but A-1 goods, and the place conducted in first-class style. No pains or expense has been spared to place the White House as the only first-class billiard hall in the territory.

The doors will be thrown open to the public on Saturday, Dec. 9, at 9 o'clock in the evening, and a first-class lunch will be served, of which everybody is respectfully invited to partake. Remember Saturday night, Dec. 9, 9 o'clock sharp.

A Second Peter.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 7.—We notice the item in last evening's issue of The Review to the effect that one Peter Winick, claiming to represent the Traders, St. Paul, London Assurance, and Western, of Toronto, insurance companies, had placed the agencies for those companies into the hands of Mr. Etheridge. It will be seen from what will follow in this card, that the mantle of Peter of old, before he repented having twice betrayed his lord and master, must have fallen upon the shoulders of this Peter, whose conduct here indicates that he has learned a great deal in treasury that the other Peter did not know, and writes him—unless he be a lunatic—a knave.

Over a week ago this man Peter came into Mr. Emmert's office, after having taken pains to investigate his character, and told him he would appoint him agent for two of his companies now; that he would place no more companies here at present, but would soon give him (Mr. E.) all the companies he represents. He left two bonds filled out, to be executed, and an order for supplies. He started south the next day, leaving a postal card, instructing Mr. E. to forward the bonds (after they were approved by a gentleman he named), and the order for supplies direct to his company at Denver. Mr. E. complied fully with his instructions, and engaged some risks to be ready when the supplies arrived.

On the same day he went to Messrs. Mack & Wheelock and offered them two other companies, and they having accepted, he left bonds for them to execute by the time he returned. During his absence he wrote them two or three postal cards, giving reasons for his delay in returning, and stating when he would be here to close up the business with them.

It may be proper to state here that at both of these offices he voluntarily gave reasons derogatory to Mr. Etheridge's character, why he would not appoint him agent for any of his companies. On yesterday he called at both of our offices twice; but at neither time did he intimate his intention to perform the act of duplicity, of which we learned, for the first time from The Review.

We submit this simple statement of facts because we deem it our duty to warn the public against an individual, who, if he be guilty of so flagrant an act of duplicity, ill faith, and a breach of every tenet of honor, is liable to impose some other swindle upon the people.

CITY CULLINGS.

What is Being Sold and Done on the Streets of the Central City.

R. B. Myers, the bakery and confectionery man, came up from Kingston yesterday morning. He is engaged in business there.

The hall to be given by the Knights of Pythias in Armijo Hall next Thursday night bids fair to be more successful than any previously given.

A hotel is being built at Clear Creek Canon, eight miles from Winslow, by Jones & Gardner. This place will one day become a very popular resort for pleasure seekers.

Dodgers distributed about the streets yesterday announced that Sanders Cochran would deliver a lecture in Armijo Hall, Sunday, on the subject of Temporal Salvation.

W. E. Talbot has purchased Houck's ice and beer business in Albuquerque, and hereafter Mr. Houck will confine his business to towns outside the central city.

Father Gasparri was reported somewhat improved yesterday by his attending physician. There is thought, however, to be but little chance for his recovery.

The Las Vegas Optic "drops into poetry" and illustrates it with patent medicine cuts. The poet writes his best original productions with a pair of shears.

Emil Schleyer, a saddler and carriage trimmer of Las Vegas, got up from his bed a few nights ago and walked away. Since then he has not been heard from and his friends think he has been murdered.

The ladies of the Episcopal church have been organizing a full church choir which will furnish music at the services to-morrow morning for the first time. It is made up of the very best musical talent of the Episcopal congregation.

A patient who was convalescing at the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad hospital, managed to get up strength enough yesterday to come down town and get drunk. He received his discharge papers immediately upon his return to the hospital.

Mr. N. E. Peterson, of the Las Vegas Hot Springs, and Miss Marie F. Hume, of Columbia, Mo., were married last Wednesday. The bride is a daughter of the late James R. Hume, and a sister of Mrs. John Pettijohn, of the Hot Springs.

Traveling theatrical companies are becoming numerous, and if all visit Albuquerque this winter who have promised to do so, the city will be well supplied with amusements during the entire season. The need of a new opera house is plainly seen.

J. M. Wheelock, the architect, yesterday awarded a contract to Whitcomb & Medler to erect a two-story brick building on the lot east of Torlina's store. The structure will cost $6000. The Knights of Pythias have leased the upper story for three years.

The Ladies' Guild Society is making arrangements to have a grand holiday present table. The time and place of the display cannot be stated now, but those who contemplate purchasing Christmas presents should wait until they have seen the many beautiful things the ladies have prepared expressly for presents.

The celebrated actress Louise Lord and her company will commence a week engagement next Monday night. Having secured a room on Railroad Avenue they will build a stage and seat 50, and open with the drama "Remember Me." As the seats will be limited secure them early. Reserved seats $1 at the post office book store.

Cherokee is the name of a saloon keeper at Ash Fork. He is probably the first man on record who combines the whisky business with religion as a paying investment. He has fitted up a room in the rear of his saloon to be used for religious purposes and each Sunday has a minister there to preach the gospel. When the sermon gets a little dry the congregation step into the bar room and wet it down with the ardent. The combination is said to work well for both the minister and saloon.

Early yesterday morning the watchman at the depot went through one of the Mexican Central cars, which lays on a side track in the company's yards, and was in the act of taking possession of several bundles of blankets which had been left in the car by tramps, when he was interrupted by a couple of the fellows. He told them that if they would leave town forthwith, they would save themselves trouble. They, with several others, received his advice kindly and boarded the first train for El Paso.

Laguna Cattle.

Nolas Griegos was arrested at a late hour Wednesday night, at the instance of W. G. Marmon, of Laguna. About three weeks ago twenty-seven head of cattle were driven off from the range of the Laguna Indians, and Capt. Marmon came to Albuquerque Wednesday afternoon and commenced a search for the stolen cattle. He learned that a Mexican named Nolas Griegos had recently sold a number of cattle to the Albuquerque Meat Company. Mr. Marmon identified a number of the cattle as those stolen from the range, and on the strength of this discovery had a warrant sworn out for the arrest of Griegos. Con Caddagan arrested the man and locked him up. His examination is set for this morning before Judge Sullivan. Mr. Marmon has sent to Laguna for some of the Indians who he says will be able to identify the cattle. Cattle thieves are becoming altogether too numerous in this section of the country, and the sooner an organized movement is made to ferret them out and punish them the better it will be for the cattle men.

RAILROAD REVIEW.

The Texas, Santa Fe & Northern—Other Railroad Matters.

Track-laying on the Deming & Silver City Railroad is about to commence.

Lumber is arriving in Albuquerque almost daily from the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, consigned to the Mexican Central Railroad Company at El Paso.

The Las Vegas Optic says: "A joke is told on Conductor Hoskins. He recently paid $10 for a mineral assay and received a certificate that the ore might run $3 to the county if the richest veins were worked."

The rules of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad Company require that their employees shall wear badges denoting their positions, and now W. C. Nixon complies with this requirement and sports a nickel sign, with the word "Agent" engraved on it.

As yet there has not been enough persons called for tickets to Chicago and return to make it worth while for the proposed excursion. Unless twenty tickets are sold, the project will be given up. These twenty tickets must be spoken for to-day, or else all arrangements will be given up. The excursion will leave Albuquerque Dec. 20, and tickets will be good to return in thirty days. The rate has been placed at the very low rate of $75, and it would naturally seem that there would be at least twenty persons take advantage of this opportunity.

The Santa Fe New Mexican, of Wednesday, says: Yesterday morning President Charles H. Gildersleeve, of the Texas, Santa Fe & Northern Railroad and Col. Charles H. Irwin, chief engineer, set out for a trip over the line of the road between here and Espanola, accompanied by Justo Armijo and several other gentlemen from Bernalillo county. The object of the trip is to show the Bernalillo gentlemen just what has been done on the line, in order that they may be more disposed to lend the support promised the company months ago. The Texas, Santa Fe & Northern managers expect very beneficial results from the trip, as it cannot fail to remove unfavorable impressions which enemies of Santa Fe have instilled into the minds of capitalists of the south, by circulating reports that no work had been done on the road, and making other injurious assertions. The fact is, that the road is in splendid condition—the grading being finished with the exception of a mile or two and the work being admirably done. No man can go over the line without being convinced that the railroad company has acted in good faith and done an immense amount of work. The grade is there to show for itself; the ties and timber to be seen along the line in proof of the faithful performance of contracts, and the road is so nearly finished as to preclude the idea of any other result than its early completion.

The Bernalillo men came up here believing that nothing had been done—no amount of assurance would shake—and they will go back convinced that already a road with as bright prospects as any road in the southwest is on the point of completion between Espanola and Santa Fe.

That Map.

The map of the Copper City district drawn by Paul Langhammer, and which was so slightly alluded to Wednesday by one of the evening dailies, is the same map shown by Mr. Stone at the last meeting of the Board of Trade.

The map besides being a splendid piece of topographical drawing, is also correct as to the positions of the different claims, mines, and millsites in the district covered. It is extremely accurate regarding the directions of the mountain ranges, the course of the water ways, and as to the position of the different deposits of coal, gypsum and mineral.

Without a careful survey, by engineers, no stretch of country can be laid down precisely and without error on a mere piece of drawing paper. The map was intended simply to cover the copper districts and was never drawn to show the directions of places and objects many miles away.

The relative positions of different towns and mountain peaks are as a whole very nearly correct, but they are fully as accurate as can be procured by a survey on horseback. The railroad was merely marked in to show what direction it might take, and was not laid down with any claim of correctness.

The professor's work, on the whole, is well done, and he deserves a great deal of credit for having given the first ideas, of the position of this immense copper region.

COOLIDGE BOYS.

The Journal's Correspondent Sends in Gossip of the Town.

COOLIDGE, Dec. 6, 1882.—It is rumored that Moore & Casey, the cattle kings of Valencia county, will establish a stock pen at this place. They must necessarily ship from this point as Coolidge is as near their range as Wingate, and it is at the end of the first and second divisions of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad.

Judge Latta received a fine consignment of cattle for his range yesterday from cattle men west of here. The judge is inclosing a fine range with a wire fence said to be eighteen miles in length, and proposes to stock it with a superior breed of cattle. We should think he would join in with Moore & Casey to build stock pens at this place. Frank Morgan, an old timer, and one of the most popular conductors on the Atlantic & Pacific road, proves to be the right man in the right place, as train dispatcher of the third and fourth divisions. Everybody at Coolidge waxes him congratulations through THE JOURNAL.

Al Gurnee alias Skinny, who has been rusticated in old Missouri for several months, has returned to Coolidge. Even the Navajos were glad to see Skinny return. Uncle Johnnie Hall, Skinny's second father, didn't exactly kill the fatted calf, but received the prodigal with open arms.

The transit of Venus was observed through smoked glass to-day by several of our citizens, thus proving that some of our people take an interest in astronomical phenomena.

J. Maloney is up from Gallup on legal business.

Mr. William Foster, near this place, has recently come into possession of several thousands due on bond pension and the sale of his ranch near this place. Glad to hear it. "Fortune sometimes confers her favors where it is least expected."

Our dance young people are to be given an opportunity to lead and follow it, spin and whirl, at two social hops to be given soon, one at Coolidge the other at Gallup.
